

SIR WILFRID
BANQUETTEDOntario Liberals Give Federal Premier Splendid Reception Last Night

Toronto, Feb. 21.—The largest banquet ever given to a public man in Canada was that tendered Sir Wilfrid Laurier by Ontario Liberals in Massey Hall tonight. There were over four thousand present. Eight hundred and fifty covers were laid, a larger number than ever before in Canada by over three hundred, and hundreds were disappointed in not getting tickets. The galleries were filled to overflowing and the decorations were more elaborate than ever before. The total bill amounted to about thirteen hundred dollars. Every riding in the province was represented and many were present from other provinces. Hon. G. W. Ross occupied the chair, and on the platform beside him were Hon. C. Hyman, Hon. A. B. Aylesworth and other leading politicians.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier got a rousing reception. The whole house stood up and waved handkerchiefs. The Premier, after reviewing the political conditions of Ontario, went over the legislation which brought Alberta and Saskatchewan into the union and showed that he stood upon the same firm ground on that issue as he stood in 1896, when he refused to permit the Dominion Conservatives to coerce the Province of Manitoba into an educational law which they had rejected. Alberta and Saskatchewan people had endorsed the legislation which was passed last session in an unmistakable manner, and the Dominion elections which followed in these provinces were not even contested by the Conservatives. The Premier next reviewed Canada's trade. The Dominion stood third among nations in regard to commerce. Sir Wilfrid spoke next on tariff matters, pointing out that the national policy meant "sharing with the tariff which no one had any use for. Referring to the preference Sir Wilfrid said it was good for Canada and in the interests of the consumer. It was a matter for Britain alone as to whether she was to give a preference in return. Canada's interest was not to interfere in British politics. He gave a glowing picture of what Canada was yet to do when trade with China and Japan, in sending flour and wheat and carrying passengers from Tokyo to England in 32 days. The Premier took his seat amid great cheering.

Make Their Report to the City Council

At the meeting of the City Council Tuesday night, Mayor May and Alderman Boyle submitted the following official report of their recent visit to Grand Rapids, Mich., and Chicago to inspect the automatic telephone.

In making the report Mayor May stated that he had no hesitation whatever in saying that in his estimation the automatic was the only machine. There are now, he said, 175,000 of them running in the United States and the automatic people are widening their scope just as rapidly as franchises and conditions will permit. The Mayor said he felt satisfied that if Edmonton puts in the automatic the people of this city will never have cause to regret the action.

Edmonton, Feb. 22, 1906.
To the Mayor and Council of the City of Edmonton:

Gentlemen—We, the undersigned members of the Edmonton Council who undertook to investigate the automatic telephone system in Chicago and Grand Rapids, beg to report as follows:

We examined the exchange of the Bell Telephone company at Winnipeg, operating about 4,500 phones, and their new switchboard being installed, having a capacity for 10,000 phones. We were shown through the factories of the Automatic Electric company and the Western Electric Manufacturing company (the Bell factory) at Chicago and examined the Automatic Exchanges at Chicago and Grand Rapids.

We spent two days at Grand Rapids where the Citizens' Telephone company are using the Automatic telephone exclusively in their city.

PRISONER TAKES THE STAND
IN HIS OWN DEFENCELudwig Lilje Accused of the Murder of William Leslie Tells His Story in Court

As the Bulletin goes to press this afternoon His Lordship is addressing the jury in the Lilje trial and the jury may reach a verdict this evening.

The court room and the hallway in the Sandison Block were crowded yesterday afternoon, with the expectation that the fate of Lilje would be decided before court again adjourned. But the whole afternoon was taken up in hearing further evidence for the defense. The last witness for the defense was the prisoner, Ludwig Lilje, who went into the box and gave the story of his doings on the night of the alleged murder. When his evidence was concluded, Mr. McDonald, crown prosecutor, stated that there was considerable rebuttal evidence, whereupon His Lordship adjourned the sitting until this morning.

At the opening of the afternoon session, Mrs. Hoehne, who was still in the box, said she found the knife about four o'clock in the afternoon. The same day Nix and others came to Hoehne's. Witness gave him his mail, and he went into the room where Hoehne had his dinner. Between the living room and the store was an enclosure. Witness went into the store about an hour afterwards and found Nix with her husband talking.

"What if Nix had said he was not at your house on that day, what would you say?" was the next question.

"I could not say, only that I saw him there," said the witness.

Witness said her husband smoked, and kept his tobacco in a red bag. Said the one produced looked like it. Witness had seen Sergt. Pennyquik searching at her place several times after Hoehne had been arrested. She had never said anything to him about the knife, because she did not know anything about it at that time. After Hoehne had come home on bail he had tried to lock witness up, and then she left him. She was frightened about the knife and that her husband would kill her. Her husband had a bad disposition and was rough.

Carl Ebert was again called and testified to Reinas being at his house about six weeks ago. They had a conversation about the fire. Reinas told witness that he and his wife were at Lilje's the night of the fire.

Amalgia Ebert, wife of the last witness, corroborated her husband's story. The prisoner, Ludwig Lilje, was then placed in the box. He was at home the night of the fire. Reinas was there until ten o'clock. Witness was there until a quarter past ten.

"Where did you go after that?" "I went to the stable to see if the horses were there." I found that the horses were not there, and went to the back of the stable where I found one horse. I went back to the house and then went to look for the other horse. I went north. I met some people I took to be Heinklemans on the road.

Witness said he then went back to the stable, found the horse had not returned, and went out again to look for it. This time he met Mrs. Heinkleman and her son. When he got to the cross roads he went west to go to the man from whom he bought the horse. He met Hoehne on the road between the bridge and Leslie's store. Witness asked him where he came from. Hoehne said "I have just filled in the orders I gave you." Witness took him to mean that he had put Leslie out the way. Witness went back to Leslie's store. Saw Leslie lying in a corner behind the door. He was dead.

"How did you know he was dead?" "He was lying with his cap nearly over his face." It was not light, but I thought I saw blood on his face.

Witness said he looked around the store, saw some watches, and some paintkitt on the shelf. Behind the paintkitt was an envelope. He looked in the envelope and found some money which he put in a sack. He then walked out and went home. Had two sacks. After he got home with the sacks he got frightened and started to take them back. About a quarter of a mile from Leslie's store, he saw the store was on fire and went home again. Went back to Leslie's again next morning. The store was burnt down. Nix told him to stay there and watch it so nobody could come near. Witness and Grams stayed there all day watching it. It was said by several there that they would hunt for the watches to satisfy them that Leslie had not been killed. Witness had seen a watch on the counter the night before. Found it in the ashes the next day and took it away. When he was arrested he threw it in the furnace of the threshing engine and threw the chain in the tank.

Gave the first information about finding the goods to Inspector Worsley in the guard room at Fort Saskatchewan.

"Had you any reason for not saying anything about it before?" "Yes. The day after the fire Hoehne gave me a tobacco bag with $10 and a note. I do not know where the note is. I had it in my pocket."

"What was on the paper?" "It said—Here is $10, keep your mouth shut, or you will be the next to go."

Witness had spoken to Grams about the bag before giving the story to Inspector Worsley. Told Grams Hoehne gave him $10 in a sack, and told him there was a note in it also. Grams said he saw Hoehne give witness something but did not know what it was. Witness asked Grams if he had seen Hoehne give him the tobacco sack. Grams said he could not say what it was. Witness then asked Grams if he would say that he saw it.

He had left told Sergt. Pennyquik that he had left the third watch in the store when he was there.

Witness said he was 35 years old, was married and had two children. Said he had taken things before when he had a good chance. He had thought that this was a good chance.

Witness said the dogs at his place were always killed by either his father or Ebert, because he could not stand seeing a wound or blood.

Cross-examined, witness said Treaser was the man witness had bought his horse from. He lived a mile west and half a mile south from his place. Witness believed at once what Hoehne said to him on the road. Witness did not touch the body he found in the store, except to lift one leg to see if Leslie was dead. Witness saw the burnt trunk of the body at the other end of the building in the morning.

Could not offer any explanation as to how the body had been moved. Said he found the third watch in the ashes next morning in three places. One of the pieces was the ring which had been brought up from the Fort yesterday. The witness had put the ring in his pocket. There was a fire in the engine when he threw the watch in. He and his brother were working on the engine when witness was arrested. His brother stopped working when they left. The fire in the engine was not put out. The note Hoehne gave witness was written in German. Witness was not given a chance to search for the note. Afterwards father of witness had told him that Hoehne was at his house and had searched through the papers and had burnt some.

Mr. McDonald, crown prosecutor asked: "Did you know Grilerson, who was a prisoner at the Fort?" "Yes."

"Did you offer him $25 to make up a story to tell to the police?" "No, I did not."

This morning the rebuttal evidence brought forward by Mr. McDonald, the crown prosecutor, was heard, and, together with the addresses by the counsel, occupied the whole of the session.

Gustave Hoehne, the man acquitted yesterday upon the same charge, was placed in the box, and his evidence proved interesting. After the addresses to the jury, the court adjourned, and this afternoon will see the close of the case.

H. F. Schultz, the first witness for the rebuttal, lives at Bruderheim. He remembered when Hoehne was arrested. He saw Hoehne's wife a week or two after the fire, and asked her what she thought of Hoehne's arrest. Witness said Mrs. Hoehne said, "God is his witness, and I am the second. Hoehne never left his home that night."

David Kronig, father-in-law of the prisoner, was called. Stayed at Lilje's all night the day he was arrested. Andreas Lilje and his wife came there that night and stayed a few hours. Justice Scott ruled against further evidence being taken by the Crown from the witness as to the conversation which occurred between Andreas Lilje and Kronig.

Gustave Hoehne was then placed in the box. He was postmaster and justice of the peace at Bruderheim. He had lived at Bruderheim for five years.

It is assumed the consultation refers to the possible vacancy in this riding owing to the likely elevation of Hon. Dr. DeVeber to the Senate. A contest is likely to be put up and it is rumored that an outsider will be foisted on the riding to provide a leader for the party in the province and that the probability is that it will be McCarthy."

TRAIN STRUCK
A LANDSLIDESouthern Pacific Express Wrecked—
Engineer Killed

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 22.—The southbound Oregon express on the Southern Pacific due to arrive here at 5 o'clock this morning, ran into a landslide near the town of Delta last night. Two engines attached to the train were reduced to scrap iron, two mail cars were derailed and rolled the embankment into the ditch, and a baggage car stopped on the edge of the embankment. Engineer Dennis Freel was killed.

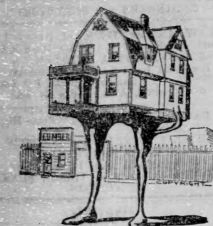

INTERMEDIATES CAPTURE MEDALS

On ice that was almost water the Intermediate Thistles crossed sticks again with the students of Alberta College last evening in the Thistle rink and won out by a score of 2 to 1, thereby taking upon themselves the set of silver decorations, the gift of Dr. Reid. It was a hard-fought battle from the draw. Notwithstanding the fact that the students had two of the senior Thistle men on, Dobson, on the left wing, and Grady in goal, the intermediates held them down and gave them a tight game of it. The little Thistles have the combination down to a fine point, which is the natural result of a hard winter's practice together, while the students, amongst whom are some brilliant stick-handlers, have had neither the opportunity nor the ice to have any considerable team practice. The game was not rough and the play was interrupted very little during the hour.

No scoring was done until about the middle of the first half, when Walker, the fast chap playing centre for the college, scored with a nice shot. This half ended with one goal for the college. About the middle of the second half "Cookie" Galloway and Gordon Sanford made superb rushes, and Gordon dodged the rubber into the net, making the first notch for the intermediates.

Edford also got the second goal for the Thistles in a sort of a mix-up in front of the goal, which finished the scoring of the game and the Thistles went off the ice with the medals. A. Burley and H. G. Woodward had charge of the game, and were highly satisfactory to the boys.

A HOPELESS CASE

With characteristic spirit and equally characteristic reasoning the Calgary Herald essays the somewhat comprehensive task of finding cause for censure of the Provincial Government in the circumstances connected with the Peace River election. That the Government disallowed the election in that constituency on the ground that polling was not held on the day appointed and that Mr. Dubuc, the successful candidate in the contest, has taken legal proceedings against the returning officer for not proclaiming him elected is considered by the Herald evidence that the Government endeavored to secure the election of Mr. Dubuc. The statement of the premises is sufficient to invalidate any remarks the Herald is likely to offer in the case.

THE CREAMERY INDUSTRY

The announcement made by the Minister of Agriculture on Tuesday that the Provincial Government would take over and continue the administration of the creamery industry of the Province along the lines pursued by the Federal Department of Agriculture, will doubtless prove very satisfactory to the farmers of Alberta. The justification of the plan adopted by the Federal Government is the successful manner in which it has worked out. When this question was taken up by the Government the industry was in a decidedly precarious condition. What creameries were in existence were in private hands and lacking uniformity in the quality and handling of products, were not in a position to encourage the development which the dairy possibilities of the country deserved. By the plan adopted, however, an opportunity was given the farmers to become the proprietors of creameries by the investment of a portion of the proceeds of expert operation and handling of products under Government supervision. This plan enlisted the sympathy of the farmers and resulted in a revival of interest in the industry which has made it one of the most profitable branches of western agriculture. There is no reason to suppose that under Provincial management the continuance of the policy will have less satisfactory results and the development which has already meant thousands of dollars to the western farmers, should continue to satisfactorily encourage an industry for which this Province is especially well adapted by nature.

THE B. C. LUMBERMEN AGAIN

The following despatch from Victoria, B. C., published in the Winnipeg Telegram, is worthy of preservation by every settler between the Lakes and the Mountains.

The legislature today discussed the amendment proposed by the leader of the opposition, Macdonald, of Resland, to the bill introduced by the Government to absolutely prohibit all timber being shipped to the United States except after being re-cut. MacDonald wants the inferior grades of timber, for which there is no demand in the province, and which suffer from fire after the heavy timber is removed, to be allowed to be sent into the United States. The Government would not accept the amendment on the ground that it would but open the door to trouble. It was also urged that timber thus shipped out would come into competition with the British Columbia product in the prairie provinces of Canada.

While the attitude of the British Columbia lumbermen toward the lumber trade of the North-West has been fairly well understood it has not heretofore been given out in such unequivocal language from sources favorable to the lumbermen. Summarized, that attitude appears to be that the people of the North-West should be absolutely precluded from purchasing lumber elsewhere than from the lumbermen of British Columbia. And in attempting to secure this ideal, not only do the lumbermen oppose the export of logs to the mills of the United States, but will not allow the cull timber which they themselves cannot and do not use to be exported, lest lumber manufactured from this should find its way back into the North-West and compete here with the product of the British Columbia mills.

The confession of this fear is an admission that from the cull timber now rotting in British Columbia forests the American millers could produce a grade of lumber which in quality and price could compete with the product of the British Columbia mills in the markets of the North-West; in other words that the American millers could transport the logs to their mills, saw them, ship the lumber back to the North-West paying duty thereon and sell the lumber here at a price to compete with the British Columbia product; in other words that over and above the profit with which the American millers would be content to invade the North-West market, the British Columbia millmen are now charging the cost of shipping the logs from British Columbia to the American coast mills, the cost of shipping the lumber back to the North-West, and the duty which would be required for its re-admission to Canada.

Yet these are the gentlemen who demand additional "protection," and for the imposition of which the Telegram and its friends are champions!

The pretense has not been made that the attitude of the British Columbia lumbermen towards the trade of the North-West is based on the exigencies of a languishing industry. On the testimony of these gentlemen themselves the lumber industry in the Pacific Province is in a generally prosperous condition and there is certainly nothing in the circumstances to warrant a doubt of their statements. The demand of the lumbermen from the Tariff Commission of additional "protection" and their demand from the Provincial Government of the prevention of all timber exports are based not on the needs of a business yet in helpless infancy nor of a business being ruined by the commercial manipulations of foreign competition, but constitute simply polite requests that the people of the North-West be prevented from purchasing lumber elsewhere than from the British Columbia mills, and at prices which the proprietors of those mills may see fit to fix.

However justifiable it may be for any class of people to plead the disadvantages of their occupation as a reason for special legislative favor at the expense of the general community, there certainly is no warrant for the attempt of a small class of men in one Province of the Dominion to hold up the people of three other Provinces for the possession of their entire market in an important commodity at prices which that class admits to be in advance of a profitable basis.

The reply of the champions of the B. C. lumbermen would doubtless be that the resources of British Columbia belong to the people of British Columbia, and may be dealt with accordingly as the people of that Province see fit. This introduces the whole question of whether or not the resources of a province do belong morally and exclusively to the people of that province. It may be that the people of British Columbia own exclusively the resources of that Province and are at liberty to deal with those resources even to the disadvantage of other provinces of the Dominion, but it may also be that the people of the Dominion of Canada have some moral rights in the matter and that it is part of the business of the nation to see that whatever advantages nature has bestowed upon one Province shall not be used as a means of exacting exorbitant prices for staple commodities from the people of other Provinces. Provincial rights are unquestionably very important, but there may be national rights in the matter which are of broader consequence and greater import than the inflated dividends of the British Columbia lumbermen. Legal rights there perhaps are not, but moral rights there may be and the patriotism which is so often and so loudly vaunted by the high protectionists could not be better evidenced by the British Columbia lumbermen than by a policy of "live and let live" towards the other provinces of the Canadian West.

CRUSHED BY
STEEL PLATEWorkman in Manitoba, Iron Works
Meets Instant Death

Winnipeg, Feb. 22.—Crushed beneath a heavy steel boiler plate weighing over 500 pounds, Henry Sharrock, an employee of the Manitoba Iron Works met with a horrible death yesterday afternoon. Sharrock, in company with a new workman, were engaged in hoisting the plate from the plate rack in the yard to the shops. The massive sheet of steel was fastened to chains on the derrick and the hoisting machinery started. For some reason or other Sharrock went under the point near the plate to see if the chains were in proper position. While he was looking upwards at the plate, one of the chains slipped and the weighty sheet of steel fell on him, crushing him to death.

Mr. Biggar here took exception to the evidence of this witness on the ground that the crown should have called witness during the case. In calling him at this stage of the case the defense had now no opportunity of showing that witness statement was untrue. Hoehne was merely in the box to deny the story of Lilge. Justice Scott said that as Mr. Biggar had seen fit to call the prisoner on the defense, that the evidence of this witness was admissible as rebuttal.

Proceeding, Mr. McDonald asked the witness, "Did you see Lilge the night of the fire?"

"No."

"Where were you the night of the fire?"

"At home in bed. I was not at the burning building that night. I did not go there until the next morning."

Witness said the statement made by Lilge that witness had asked him to put Leslie out of the way, was a lie. Also the statement of Lilge about the money and the note was a lie.

Regarding the knife, witness said he had made it himself, and had last used it the year before the fire to perform an operation upon a colt. He had last seen the knife sticking in the wall in the kitchen.

Cross-examination: Witness was at Lilge's house a day or two after Lilge was arrested. He had looked over some papers and had shown Mrs. Lilge several and said to her not to mind what was in them, but just to throw them away.

"Why did you ask your wife to hunt for the knife while you were in jail?"

Witness said his mind was on the knife all the time, because people were trying to put the crime on him.

The night of the fire witness attended the store and post office till ten, then went to bed. Denied the statement of his wife that Nix had been to see him the day after witness got back from the Port.

Witness said his wife had left him because friends had wanted her to. Witness had never given her any reason to leave him. Was angry at her at times.

Witness remembered the police coming to his place the day before he was arrested.

"The day you were arrested, do you remember saying in German to your wife, 'I am arrested, I am a murderer. I killed Leslie'?"

"No. I did not say that. I only said to her 'I am arrested on the charge of murdering Leslie'."

Witness said the neighbors were all against him. He had committed the two Grams for trial, and he thought that was one reason why they had accused him of this.

This concluded the taking of the rebuttal evidence.

The addresses occupied considerable time. Mr. Biggar, in his remarks said that the whole case depended upon whether the story told by Lilge was true. Lilge was a man who was shown to be by nature a thief and a sneak, but had not the courage nor boldness to commit a deliberate murder. Lilge's story had not varied in the least, although he had told it again and again. He had been cross-examined by expert counsel. The story was absolutely consistent with the facts and with the nature of the man.

Mr. McDonald, Crown prosecutor, summed up the evidence, setting before the jury the facts as brought out, and said that if there was any reasonable doubt at all in their minds, that the prisoner was entitled to the benefit of that doubt.

THE LAND FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

Mr. F. C. Banfill, B. A., writes as follows from Los Angeles, California:

To the Editor of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Dear Sir—Having on one or two different occasions read newspaper articles which were apparently intended to discourage settlement in Alberta I should like to say a word in its favor. It is this: In no place from Portland on the Atlantic to Portland on the Pacific (via C. P. R. and connecting lines) have I found such favorable opportunities for young people starting out in life with limited means, as in the Province of Alberta.

Say what you will, these opportunities are not to be found either in the western states of the Union which I have visited or in the older provinces of the Dominion of Canada. And why not? Simply because land values have been forced up and all the choice localities have been seized upon.

In Alberta, the situation is different. The several new lines of railway which are now crossing the province in every direction will open vast areas of the very best wheat land in the world. This is the time of awakening in Alberta and strange to say, the people in the western states of America are far more alive to the fact than eastern Canadians. I have met with dozens of Americans who are only waiting until spring to cross over into Alberta and find homes for themselves.

It does not matter so much where they locate. There is an abundance of good land in all parts of the province, but for myself, having always lived in Bromo county, one of the best agricultural sections of the Province of Quebec, I think I can best appreciate the district around Edmonton and for some distance south.

Here you find a district adapted to mixed farming, as are the agricultural sections of Quebec province but far surpassing anything I have ever seen in Quebec on account of the extreme richness of the soil, better climate and absence of stony land. There are the same advantages in respect to timber and good water as are to be found in the older province.

During my stay in Alberta I spent several weeks in Calgary and then went north, visiting Strathcona and Edmonton and stopping off for a few days at Wetaskiwin. At the last named place I had the pleasure of being present at the opening of the new high school which, along with other institutions of learning that I visited, certainly reflect much credit upon educational affairs in general in the province.

After this I spent over two months' time at Wood River and was especially delighted with the climate there. From October 30 to January 4 I walked to and from my work, a distance of nearly one and one-quarter miles, and never once did I have to go or come in a storm. When one contrasts this with the fall rains, deep mud and rough, frozen roads of western Canada, he must of necessity decide in favor of the west.

During the above mentioned time the weather was cold at two different times, but for a few days only. The Wednesday before I left Alberta, Jan. 3, I think it was, the thermometer registered 50 above.

Another part of Alberta that pleased me very much was that around Chesterfield. Here while driving through the country I saw some very pretty farms and farming land.

As a general rule I have found that while conversing with different people as to the respective merits of different provinces or districts, if you found a person who was particularly loud in his praise of one certain part more than another, you might expect to find that he had some property for sale in that immediate vicinity or that he himself lived there. In my case, however, I can plead not guilty, as I have not yet decided where I will locate, but I can safely say that I should prefer western Canada and Alberta before all other provinces. Yours truly,

F. C. B.

WOMAN AND CHILD KILLED

Indian Woman and Child Murdered on Washington Reserve

Tacoma, Feb. 22.—A double murder was discovered four miles east of Port Simcoe on the Yakima reserve today. The victims were Susie Buchanan, an Indian woman and her two-year-old child. The discovery was made by Sam Asheo, an Indian, who found the woman and child dead in their bed with their skulls crushed.

LAC STE ANNE

(Correspondence)

C. E. LaMoine, D.L.S. and A. Michaud, D.L.S. passed through this village last week on their way to join their respective survey parties, subdividing in the vicinity of the Paddle River.

James Maloney and Thomas Kilgore of St. Albert with a large party have returned from the Saddle River. Every one of these land seekers has secured a splendid location on that large expanse of country now known as Grand View Plains. As our two great projected transcontinental railways will pass through these plains there is a big rush of home-seekers there to capture the choicest locations. To the credit of these enterprising men be it said that in one week's time they built several cabins and cut out the winter trail for a considerable distance so as to make the journey by waggon next week should sleighing not come sooner.

Last week our visit was favored by a visit from Mr. Dawson, one of St. Albert's merchants. While here he was the guest of Father Lizzie of the R. C. Mission.

Boyle Inspector Fraser of Strathcona was in Lac Ste. Anne on Wednesday last on his tour of inspection.

Also later in the week Mr. McIntosh, of Edmonton, Inspector of bridges, accompanied by Fred Tate of St. Albert, inspected the Lac Ste. Anne trail with respect to the repair and construction of bridges where they are necessary.

On Wednesday, the 14th inst., our village was the scene of a wedding. The contracting parties were Miss Ursula Letandre and William John Belcourt. Miss Euphrasia Belcourt and Frank Boivin did the honors as bridesmaid and best man respectively. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's father, after which the many friends of the happy couple made merry by dancing till the following morning. Mr. and Mrs. Belcourt will take up their residence in Lac Ste. Anne.

Peter Gunn, post master, is fixing up a new post office.
 C. Armstrong is busy this week with his circular saw and is leaving at many dozens large piles of wood ready for the stoves.

Narcisse Courteville has disposed of his large batch of furs to the H.B. Co. He secured his excellent catch on the Saskatchewan up towards the mountains.

The dance at White Whale Lake given by Messrs. Seton and Coates on Friday night is pronounced by all who attended from this village and Onoway an unqualified success.

D. H. Jock is organizing several pack trains here. He intends to send eight tons of Grand Trunk Pacific supplies for the transportation of which to the Jasper Pass he has the contract, as far as the west bank of the McLeod River, as soon as possible.

Frank Boivin pulled out of the village last week with a well laden pack train bound for the Jasper Pass. Lac Ste. Anne is undoubtedly the gateway to the west and the base of supplies.

FAVORS THE AUTOMATIC

exchange. They have 7,300 telephones in operation, all operating from one exchange into all parts of the city and the Bell company have an exchange operating about 3,500 'phones in the city, which exchange we also visited.

The exchange of the Citizens Telephone company (Automatic) appeared to us to be working very smoothly. They were using operators only to connect subscribers with their long distance lines.

In order to make satisfactory enquiries from the subscribers we separated and made individual enquiries from the subscribers in different parts of the city and are bound to report that we failed to find a single subscriber who was not highly satisfied with the service and they appeared to be unanimous in declaring it to be a big improvement on the manually operated exchange. We had the opportunity of testing the comparative rapidity with which a subscriber could be called on the automatic and the manually operated telephone, as many business men had both telephones on their desk, and must say that the automatic is much the quicker.

We have come to the conclusion that the automatic exchange is to be preferred to the manually operated for the following reasons:

1. It is a secret service.
2. You can call your subscriber much more quickly.
3. If the line is busy you know at once for a certainty and do not have to rely on the operator's word for it.
4. It never makes the mistake of calling the wrong subscriber.
5. It never disconnects the subscribers during a conversation.
6. The operating expense is much less.

Additions may be made to the exchange providing for more subscribers at about the same proportionate cost.

The latter we consider very important as a system that lends itself readily to expansion is highly desirable in a rapidly growing city like this. We found that at Winnipeg the Bell company have at present a switchboard with a capacity of 5,000, and as they have now nearly reached their limit, they are obliged to put in now an entirely new switchboard with all the wiring and equipment at a very heavy cost, and tear out the old board altogether. The old board may be of some value to the Bell company somewhere else but to us, under such circumstances, it would be probably, if not altogether, valueless. In using the automatic, however, when more capacity is required more switches of the same kind are added and connected up.

The relative figures as to cost of installation, prepared by the commissioners from prices quoted by the manufacturers, as far as we can learn, are about correct, and although the first cost of the automatic is a little higher, when we consider that the manually operated switchboard is a heavy loss whenever its capacity is reached, it being then necessary to tear it out and install a new one, we believe that the cost of installation of the automatic will prove the cheaper in the course of a few years if our expectations as to the growth of the city are realized.

We may say that an automatic exchange can be installed here and one in Strathcona, with say five or six, or any number of trunk lines desired, and a subscriber here could call a subscriber in Strathcona or vice versa automatically, with no more trouble than in case of a subscriber in the same town on the same exchange.

We may further add that where party lines are desired, four subscribers may be placed on one line and only the bell of the subscriber's 'phone wanted, will ring when he is called.

We append hereto copy of the annual report of the Citizens' Telephone company at Grand Rapids for the year ending June 30, 1905, and comparative statement as to cost of operation of the city exchange since the automatic system was installed. As these statements were prepared for the information of the shareholders of the company we deem them valuable information.

The manufacturers of the automatic 'phone claim to be able to operate a very satisfactory fire alarm system in connection with the exchange, and their plan, as outlined to us, appears quite feasible. We did not have the opportunity of seeing it in actual operation.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) CHAS. MAY,
J. R. BOYLE.
